

HELIOS

by Luke Jerram

Experience the Sun like never before at St Fin Barre's Cathedral.

Helios is an invitation to explore the sun up close through a huge, dazzling new artwork by world-renowned UK artist Luke Jerram.

Each centimetre of this six-metre sculpture represents 2,300km of the real sun's surface.

See mesmerising sunspots and sources of solar flares to a soundtrack of live NASA recordings of our solar system's power source. Light and sound combine to create an awe-inspiring, immersive opportunity to bathe in the intensity of the sun's beauty and power - while reflecting on its vital role in shaping Earth's climate and sustaining life

Helios is co-commissioned by Cork Midsummer Festival and is the fourth Irish premiere of Luke Jerram's captivating work at the festival.

MUSIC & ART PROGRAMME 2025

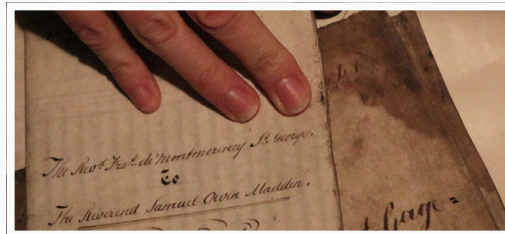

SAINT
FIN BARRE'S

CATHEDRAL ♦ CORK

Our Cathedral is already in itself a place of high architectural and artistic expression, using carvings, statuary, floor mosaics, marble, frescoes, the drama of liturgy and music to draw the pilgrim into the journey towards the heavenly Jerusalem. To now have a comprehensive arts programme running throughout the year which connects both with our 'in house' artistic expression alongside that of the wider pool of great talent in the city takes things to a new level. I hope that this programme opens up fresh conversations, encourages spiritual development, and engages with diverse communities that the Cathedral's mission will be broadened even further than it already is.

THE VERY REVEREND NIGEL DUNNE,
DEAN OF CORK

LIVING STONES: AN EXHIBITION OF MEDIEVAL STONE CARVINGS

St Fin Barre's Cathedral is home to a number of remarkable medieval stone carvings. Find this exhibition in the cathedral's north aisle and discover another layer of the history of this ancient site.

THE BURGESS MAQUETTES

See an exhibition of plaster models, designed by architect, William Burgess. These extremely rare and fragile objects were made as templates for the stone carvings of the cathedral and are now the subject of a ground-breaking conservation project.

ARCHIVE AND COLLECTION

Our Archive & Collection exhibitions are designed to reveal some lesser-known aspects of the cathedral's rich history. Interesting and unusual stories are told through documents and artefacts selected from the cathedral archives. Look out for a year-round rotating display in the ambulatory.

CATHEDRAL CHOIR

St Fin Barre's Cathedral Choir goes back to the Middle Ages and is mentioned in a manuscript dated 1328. Choral music is an integral part of our worship at the cathedral. Choral Eucharist is offered every Sunday and Choral Evensong is offered every Sunday and Friday from September to June. All are welcome to join us at these services.
